REMINISCENCES OF REV. H. C. DUBOSE, D. D.

In the year 1867 my parents resided in Williamsburg county, South Carolina. Our home was a modest four-room log building, with a wide hall between each room. In this house my mother and father sang and prayed and worshipped God. In the summer months the Presbyterian churches for five, six and twelve miles in each direction from our home were generally supplied by students from the theological seminary at Columbia, S. C. That summer the supply was the Rev. H. C. Dubose, afterward the blessed missionary to China. The writer was then a boy 6 years of age, but recalls many things that took place those summer months; how my parents took me in a wagon or buggy five miles in the morning to hear Brother Dubose preach at Elon Grove, and five miles in the afternoon to hear him again at our old church called Union. I remember the magnificent body, the straight figure, the clear, strong voice of the young preacher. How solemn the message to my heart was. How deep the impression upon my young life. Some weeks during this summer several members of our family had malarial fever. I had typhoid. He regularly visited the sick in his congregation. He was a model pastor, as well as sympathetic friend. Well do I remember one hot day in July when he called at my father's home. I had been placed by my aunt on a pallet on the porch. The young preacher knelt by the pallet that day and begged God "to spare my life and call me to preach." I was too weak, too sick to remember the words, but was told years afterward that these were some of the utterances in the prayer. I often praise God for that prayer he offered in my behalf and for his influence that summer over my young life.

My next impressive recollection of Dr. Dubose was at the meeting of the General Assembly in the First Presbyterian church in Birmingham, Ala. in 1891. He was chosen moderator. Not only the mastery was he presided, but above everything else was I impressed with his deep spiritual life. It was an assembly of prayer. Frequently during the deliberations of that body he would ask a brother and would suggest that the Assembly rise and worship Christ by singing "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name" or some other hymn of the ages. Then he would lead in prayer himself. He would talk to God as a friend to a friend. He would plead for an outpouring of God's spirit upon the church at home and the work. The church should praise God. I certainly thank God for such a powerful life.
