DEAR SIR:

I find that "The Wheat and Chaff Gathered into Bundles," being the fifth item of the McCosh Bibliography recently sent you, was the work of another James McCosh, an editor in Dundee, Scotland. Please strike it from the list.

Yours truly,

J. H. DULLES.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 15. 1895.

McCOSH BIBLIOGRAPHY.

A List of the Published Writings of the Rev. James McCosh,
DD., LL.D., Ex-President of Princeton College.

By the REV. JOSEPH H. DULLES,
Librarian of Princeton Theological Seminary.

BIBLIOGRAPHY.

The following list covers a period of sixty one years, from the time that Doctor McCosh was twenty-two years old until the year of his death. It is arranged chronologically and thus constitutes an exposé of his literary life. The absolute chronological sequence is broken in the cases of the Baccalaureate Sermons and the Philosophical Series, which are kept together. The list does not include all of Dr. McCosh's contributions to the religious press, but does contain the more important of these. It embraces three classes: books, papers read before learned societies and articles contributed to various periodicals, and distinct pamphlets. The books may be distinguished by small capitals. It has been impossible to obtain the full data of all the editions through which some of the books have passed. The pamphlets are given as bound in paper, although in one or two cases there is no separate cover. Italics have been used to indicate the periodicals or published proceedings in which his various articles have appeared.
