PREFACE.

THE pages that follow are to be regarded as merely an attempt to put in permanent form the genealogical material that has fallen into my hands, with the hope that it may be useful to generations following, and possibly may encourage some one of the tribe to prosecute the work until there shall be a complete genealogy of the Hazen Family.

A considerable portion of the facts here given was furnished by my father, Rev. Reuben S. Hazen, and has been in my hands for many years. I am indebted to Rev. H. A. Hazen, of Boston, Mass., and H. A. Hazen, Esq., Washington, D. C., for much material, and for correction of that already in my possession.

If those to whom a copy of this may be sent will send me such information as may be in their possession, with regard to the present or to past generations of the family, not herein contained, it will be carefully preserved, and possibly used at some future time for the enlargement of the work.

JAMES KING HAZEN.

NOTES.

(a). The origin of the family beyond the sea has not been traced, but it is believed to be of purely English origin. Recent information locates a family of this name in Newcastle-on-Tyne in the last century.

(b). THOMAS (2), [Edward (1)] owned a farm in Rowley at his father's death; removed to Boxford before March 22, 1689-'90; was dismissed from the church in Topsfield, to become one of the constituent members of the church in Boxford, 1702; removed in 1711 to Norwich, Conn., (West Farms), now Franklin, and was, with three of his sons, petitioner for its incorporation as a parish in 1716

(c). RICHARD (2), [Edward (1)] inherited the large estate of his stepfather, George Browne, of Haverhill, and was a lieutenant in the militia. His first wife, Mary, was daughter of Capt. John and Hannah Andrews Peabody. Hannah Andrews was the daughter of the emigrant ancestor of the late Gov. John A. Andrews, and Capt. John Peabody was the son of Lieutenant Francis Peabody, from whom descended the great London banker, Geo. Peabody.

(d). SAMUEL (3), [Edward (2), Edward (1).] "In 1749 Samuel Hazen purchased a farm in what was then called Stow-leg, a small strip of land soon after annexed to Shirley, forming its entire Southern boundary. This estate, after many changes and improvements, remains in possession of the family in the fourth and fifth generations. He was chosen selectman at the organization of the town in 1753, and held the same office in after years. Few families pass through four generations, like the Hazens of Shirley, maintaining such general good character and sustaining such invaluable thrift."

(e). THOMAS (4), [Thomas (3), Thomas (2), Edward (1)] moved from Woobury, Conn., 1774, to Hartford, Vt., where most of his sixteen children married and settled. His land extended six miles across the Northern boundary of the town, and included one thousand acres around the present village of West Hartford. He built in 1775 the first two-story house in the town, which is still occupied, as it always has been, by his descendants, Asa (5), Allen (6), and Charles Dana (7), who is its present owner. He had a numerous posterity, among whom Rev. Austin, pastor in Hartford and Berlin, Vt., and father of Rev. Allen, for many years a missionary in India, of Mrs. Stoddard, sometime missionary in Persia, and of three other sons, who are clergymen in Vermont and Connecticut; the Rev. Jasper, one of the most honored ministers and editors of the Christian denomination; Gen. Wm. B. Hazen, of the United States Army; Rev. H. A. Hazen, Boston, Mass., and H. A. Hazen, of the United States Signal Service.

(f). JOHN (4), [Moses (3), Richard (3), Edward (1)] was active in the settlement of Hampstead, N. H.; was distinguished for services in the French and Indian War; in the Crown Point Expedition was lieutenant in Col. Meserve's regiment; in 1758 was captain in Col. Hart's regiment, and in 1760 in Col. Goffe's regiment, sent out for the invasion of Canada.

(g). MOSES (4), [Moses (3), Richard (3), Edward (1)] was also in the French War, and distinguished himself under Wolfe on the plains of Abraham, where he was severely wounded. After the war he retired on half pay for life in the British Army, settling at St. Johns, Canada. When the Revolution came, he joined the patriot cause, sacrificing a large estate and his half pay, raised a regiment of Canadians, which was recruited afterward from all quarters, and was known variously as "Congress' Own" and "Hazen's Own." Though charged by the traitor Arnold with insubordination, the record proves his good conduct, and he held the rank of brigadier-general at the close of the war. He cut a military road through Northern Vermont from Peacham to Hazen's Notch, which till bears his name.

(h). WILLIAM (4) [Moses (3), Richard (2), Edward (1)] moved before the Revolution to New Brunswick, and from the establishment of the province was a member of the Governor's council until his death. Of his sixteen children, Elizabeth married Hon. Ward Chipman, H. C. 1770, Judge of the Supreme Court, and acting Governor of New Brunswick at the time of his death, in 1824. His son, Hon. Ward Chipman, LL. D., H. C., 1805, was the late Chief Justice of the province. William (5) was father of Hon. Robert L. Hazen, Recorder of St. Johns and Senator of Canada. Robert (5) was an officer of the British Army and father of Robert F. Hazen, of St. Johns. Sarah Lovell (5) married William Botsford, late Judge of the Supreme Court of New Brunswick, father of the Hon. Amos E., a Senator of Canada, the Hon. George, of Fredericton, and Dr. Le Baron, of St. Johns. Charlotte (5) married Gen. Sir John Foster Fitzgerald, member of the British Parliament, whose daughters, Charlotte, married Otto Leopold, Baron Von Ende, Chamberlain to the King of Saxony, and Anne married Sir Robert Keith Arbuthnot, Baronet of Scotland. Frances Amelia married Col. Charles Drury, of the British Army, having sons, Gen. Charles and Ward Chipman Drury, of St. Johns.

(i). GIDEON M. HAZEN, of Knoxville, Tenn., was a son of Asa Hazen. [Howlet (4), Jacob (3), Thomas (2), Edward (1).]
