of Scranton, Pa., from April 17, 1850, until Oct. 19, 1853, when ill-health caused his resignation. From 1853 to 1855 he was principal of the Wyoming Presbyterian Institute, and then supplied the Wyoming Church for a year, after which he resided without charge for two years in Scranton. He supplied the Congregational Church at Binghamton, N. Y., from 1858 to 1863. From 1863 to 1864 he engaged in evangelistic work in Washington, D. C., as his health permitted, and after that in Binghamton, N. Y., for the three following years. His health did not allow his resuming regular pastoral work, but he preached as he was able during his residence in Wellsboro, Pa., 1867-77; in California, 1877-78; in Germantown, Pa., 1878-90; in Danbury, Conn., in 1891-94, and in Chambersburg, Pa., from the spring of 1896 until his death there, Nov. 3, 1900, of pneumonia, in the 82nd year of his age. He was buried in the Cedar Grove Cemetery, Chambersburg. He received the honorary degree of D. D. from Lafayette College in 1860. Dr. Mitchell was instrumental in changing the name of Sleepy Hollow to Scranton, and then to Scranton.

He was married April 24, 1839, in Philadelphia, to Miss Almira Ann Carpenter, who died Feb. 8, 1868. One son survives him.

BEVERLY TUCKER LACY, D.D.,

Son of the Rev. William Sterling and Sally Campbell (Graham) Lacy, was born Feb. 21, 1819, at "Mt. Ararat," Prince Edward Co., Va. He made a public profession of his faith in the Glade Spring Presbyterian Church, Fayette Co., Tenn., at the age of twenty. His preparatory studies were conducted by his father, who taught in connection with his preaching in Missouri and Tennessee, and he graduated from Washington College (now Washington and Lee University), Va., in 1843. Entering the Seminary at Princeton the same year, he took the full three years' course there, graduating in 1846. He was licensed by the Presbytery of New Brunswick, April 29, 1846, and ordained by the Presbytery of Winchester at Shepherdstown, Va., May 16, 1847. He was pastor of the Kent Street Church, Winchester, Va., from June 19, 1847, to April 18, 1851. During a part of 1851 and 1852 he labored in Kentucky as agent for church extension of the Board of Domestic Missions. He was pastor of the church at Salem, Ky., 1852-57; at Frankfort, Ky., 1857-61; stated supply at Fredericksburg, Va., one year, 1862-63. During the civil war he acted as chaplain at the headquarters of General Jackson and elsewhere as needed, in the 2d corps of the army of Northern Virginia, as long as the struggle lasted. He was pastor of the church at Wytheville, Va., from June, 1865, to October, 1866, and of the Pine Street (now Grand Avenue) Church, St. Louis, Mo., 1866-70; superintendent of missions of the Synod of Missouri, 1870-73; pastor at Mexico, Mo., 1873-78. At this time he went abroad to collect funds for the Tuscaloosa Institute for Training Colored Ministers, Ala., of which he was the agent until 1880, when he was smitten with locomotor ataxia. With somewhat recovered health he served the churches at California, Longwood, Hughesville and Lamonte, Mo., during the years 1880 to 1887. During the last thirteen years of his life he was a helpless invalid, residing at Georgetown, D. C., where he died November 3, 1900, of paralysis, in the 82d year of his age. He was buried at Lexington, Va. He received the degree of D.D. from Westminster College, Mo., in 1867. Dr. Lacy was a commissioner to the General Assembly (O. S.) at Lexington, 1857, and to the Assembly of the Southern Church at Knoxville, Ky., 1878.

He was married April 29, 1847, to Miss Agnes Reid Alexander, a niece of Professor Archibald Alexander, of Princeton, who died April 9, 1851. One son survives him, Judge John A. Lacy, of Washington, D. C.

LUDLOW DAY POTTER, D.D.,

Son of Jotham and Phebe (Pettit) Potter, was born Jan. 3, 1823, at New Providence, N. J. He made a public profession of his faith in the Presbyterian Church of New Providence at the age of fourteen. His preparatory studies were pursued at the Hill Top Boarding School at Mendham, N. J., under Ezra Fairchild, and he graduated from Princeton College in 1841. He
